

Probuild Delivers Final Major Stage of The Glen Redevelopment

Probuild has delivered the final major stage of The Glen's $430 million redevelopment, with the doors opening to reveal 50 new fashion and lifestyle stores, a new-format David Jones store and an indoor-outdoor dining precinct with more than 10 new restaurants.

The fourth and final major stage of The Glen's transformation since redevelopment work began in 2017 sees the expansion complete, with the centre now offering shoppers more than 250 retailers across fashion, fresh food, beauty, lifestyle and dining.

Redeveloped to bring a more premium customer experience to shoppers in Melbourne's south-east, The Glen now blends the latest retail store formats and fitouts, with luxurious amenity and an open air two-level dining precinct.

"The opening of this latest and the final major stage of The Glen is a wonderful achievement for Probuild and our partner, Vicinity Centres," said Probuild Victoria's Managing Director, Luke Stambolis.

"We've enjoyed a relationship with Vicinity that extends past 30 years, having built every major retail stage of Chadstone. We're pleased to have now delivered all four stages at The Glen and see this important retail and dining destination beautifully transformed and extended for an improved customer experience."

"This final major stage at The Glen was completed by Probuild on program, to an exceptionally high level of quality and safety - attributes Probuild is renowned for," Mr. Stambolis said.

The Probuild team will continue to be involved in The Glen but turn its attention skyward with construction recently commencing on Golden Age Group's Sky Garden project. To be located on top of The Glen in a joint venture between Golden Age and Probuild, Sky Garden will be Australia's biggest residential project being built over a retail destination, with more than 500 new apartments in three towers underway and due for completion in 2021.
